तिघ् tigh, cl. 5. P. tighnoti, &c., to strike; to hurt or kill.

तिङ्गुद tinguda, as, m. (a wrong reading for tinduka), N. of a plant.

तिज् tij, cl. 1. P. A., Ved. tejati, -te, Ved. Inf. tejase, to be or become sharp; to sharpen: Caus. P. tejayati, -yitum, to sharpen, whet; to stir up, excite, incite, urge on: Desid. A. titikshate, to desire to become sharp or firm, to resist, oppose, to bear with firmness, suffer with courage or patience, endure, bear: Intens. Ved. tetikte; [cf. Zend tigh-ra, 'pointed, peaked;' tigh-ri, 'an arrow:' Gr. στίζ-ω, στίγ-μα, στιγ-μή, στικ-τό-s: Lat. di-sting-u-o (δια-στίζω), in-stinctu-s, in-stiga-re, stī-mulu-s for stig-mulu-s, stī-lu-s for stig-lu-s: Goth. us-stiggan, 'to sting;' tēka, 'to touch;' stiggvan, stik-s, stak-s: Old Germ. sting-u, stihhu, 'I sting;' stachila, 'a prickle;' stihhil, 'a stile:' Angl. Sax. stician, 'to sting:' Lith. tékinu, 'I whet;' tékėlis, 'a large whetstone:' Russ. točù, 'I whet;' točílo, 'a whetstone:' Camhro-Brit. teg, 'clear, fair, beautiful, pretty, bland.']

Tikta, as, ā, am, bitter (as sharpening the appetite), pungent; fragrant; (as), m. a bitter taste; one of the six modifications of flavour (rasa); bitterness, pungency; fragrance, perfume; N. of several plants, viz. Wrightia Antidysenterica (=kuṭaja); Capparis Trifoliata (=varuṇa); Agathotes Chirayta (=kirāta-tikta); Melia Azadirachta; Terminalia Catappa (=iṅgudī); a bitter sort of cucumber, Trichosanthes Cucumerina (?); a kind of salt; (ā), f., N. of several plants, viz. Helleborus Niger (=kaṭu-rohiṇī); Clypea Hernandifolia (=pāṭhā); Artemisia Sternutatoria; (am), n. a medicinal plant, Mollugo Pentaphylla.—Tikta-kandakā, f. Curcuma Zedoaria.—Tikta-gandhā or tikta-gandhikā, f. mustard, Lycopodium Imbricatum.—Tikta-guḍjā, f. Pongamia Glabra.—karañja.—Tikta-ghṛita, am, n. a mixture of Ghṛita with bitter herbs &c.—Tikta-taṇḍulā, f. long pepper.—Tikta-tuṇḍī, f.=kaṭu-tuṇḍī.—Tikta-tumbī, f.=kaṭu-tumbī, a bitter gourd.—Tikta-dugdhā, f., N. of several plants,=kshīriṇī, aja-śṛiṅgī, svarṇa-kshīrī.—Tikta-dhātu, us, m. bile.—Tikta-pattra, as, m. a cucurbitaceous plant, Momordica Mixta.—Tikta-parvan, ā, f., N. of several plants, viz. Cocculus Cordifolius; Hingcha (=hilamoćī) Repens; Panicum Dactylon, =madhu-yashṭi; liquorice.—Tikta-pushpā, f. Clypea Hernandifolia; Bignonia Suaveolens.—Tikta-phala, as, m. Strychnos Potatorum [cf. kataka]; (ā), f., N. of several plants,=yava-tiktā, vārtākī, shaḍ-bhujā.—Tikta-bhadraka, as, m. a kind of cucumber, Trichosanthes Dioica.—Tikta-marića, as, m. Strychnos Potatorum; [cf. kataka.]—Tikta-yavā, f., N. of a plant,=śaṅkhinī.—Tikta-rohiṇikā or tikta-rohiṇī, f. a medicinal plant,=kaṭu-rohiṇī.—Tikta-vallī, f. the plant Sanseviera Roxburghiana.—Tikta-vījā, f. a kind of cucumber, =kaṭu-tumbī.—Tikta-śāka, as, m. 'bitter herbs or greens,' N. of several plants, viz. Capparis Trifoliata; Acacia Catechu, a kind of Mimosa [cf. khadira];=pattra-sundara.—Tikta-sāra, as, m. the plant Acacia Catechu; (am), n. a kind of fragrant grass.—Tiktākhyā (°ta-ākh°), f. the plant Tikta-tuṇḍī.—Tiktāṅgā (°ta-aṅ°), f. a kind of creeper,=pātāla-garuḍī.—Tiktāmṛitā (°ta-am°), f. Menispermum Glabrum.—Tiktāyana (°ta-ay°), as, ī, am, Ved. possessing the heat or radiance of fire.

Tiktuka, as, ā, am, bitter; anything having a bitter flavour; (as), m., N. of several plants, viz. Trichosanthes Dioica; Agathotes Chirayta; a sort of Acacia Catechu; Terminalia Catappa [cf. kirāta-tiktaku]; (ā), f. a kind of gourd (kaṭu-tumbī); Cardiospermum Halicacabum, =karañja-vallī; (ikā), f. a kind of gourd (kaṭu-tumbī); [cf. jala-tiktikā.]

Tigita, as, ā, am, Ved. sharp, pointed.

Tigma, as, ā, am, sharp, pointed (as a weapon or as flame or a ray of light); violent; hot; pungent, acrid; scorching; fiery, passionate, hasty; (as), m., N. of a prince; (am), n. heat; a pungent or hot flavour, the heat of spices, pungency; [cf. tīkshṇa; cf. also Hib. time, 'heat, warmth.']—Tigma-kara, as, m. 'hot-rayed,' the sun; [cf. tigma-dīdhitī, tigma-raśmi, tigmāṇśu.]—Tigma-ketu, us, m., N. of a son of Svar-vīthi and Vatsara.—Tigma-ga, as, ā, am, going or flying swiftly.—Tigma-jambha, as, ā, am, Ved. having sharp teeth, an epithet of Agni.—Tigma-tā, f. or tigma-tva, am, n. sharpness, pungency; heat; passion, petulance.—Tigma-tejas, ās, ās, as, Ved. sharp-edged, sharp-pointed: penetrating, pervading; of a violent character.—Tigma-dīdhiti, is, m. the sun; [cf. tigma-kara.]—Tigma-bhrishṭi, is, is, i, Ved. sharp-pointed, a N. of Agni.—Tigma-yātanā, f. acute pain, agony, torment.—Tigma-raśmi, is, m. the sun; [cf. tigma-kara.]—Tigma-ruć, k, k, k, shining brightly, hot; (k), m. the sun.—Tigma-vat, ān, atī, at, Ved. containing the word tigma.—Tigma-śṛiṅga, as, ā, am, Ved. having sharp horns.—Tigma-śoćis, is, is, is, Ved. having sharp rays, epithet of Agni.—Tigma-heti, is, is, i, Ved. having sharp weapons (or flames); forming a sharp weapon (as the horns of Agni).—Tigmāṇśu (°ma-aṇ°), us, us, u, having sharp rays or warm beams; (us), m. the sun; fire; an epithet of Śiva.—Tigmātman (°ma-āt°), ā, m., N. of a prince, son of Urva.—Tigmānīka (°ma-an°), as, ā, am, Ved. sharp-pointed; (Sāy.) sharp-mouthed.—Tigmāyudha (°ma-āy°), as, ā, am, Ved. having or casting or forming sharp weapons.—Tigmeshu (°ma-ishu), us, us, u, Ved. having sharp arrows.

Titikshu, as, m. (fr. Desid. of rt. tij), N. of a man; (ā), f. endurance, patience, resignation, suffering, forbearance; Patience personified as a daughter of Daksha and wife of Dharma and mother of Kshema.

Titikshita, as, ā, am, borne, endured, suffered.

Titikshu, us, us, u, bearing, enduring patiently, patient, resigned, forbearing; (us), m., N. of a son of Mahā-manas and descendant of Janam-ejaya.

तिजिल tijila, as, m. (said to be fr. rt. tij), the moon; a Rakshas.

तिटिभ tiṭibha, a particular high number; (also read tiṭilambha.)

तिणिस tiṇisa, as, m.=tiniśa, q. v.

तिण्टी tiṇṭī, f. a plant, commonly Teori, Convolvulus Turpethum (=tri-vṛit).

तितउ tita-u, us, u, m. n. (said to be fr. rt. 3. tan by a kind of reduplication, cf. τιτάλνω; but perhaps fr. rt. taṅs), a sieve, a cribble; a parasol; [cf. čālanī.]

तितनिषु titanishu, us, us, u (fr. Desid. of rt. 3. tan), desirous of extending or enlarging.

तितिक्ष titiksha. See above.

तितिभ titibha, as, m. an insect, cochineal.

तितिरि titiri, is, m.=tittiri, a partridge.

तितिल titila, am, n. a sort of sweetmeat made of sesamum ground and baked with sugar; one of the seven Karaṇas or astronomical periods; a bowl or bucket, =nandaka.

तितीर्षा titīrshā, f. (fr. Desid. of rt. tṛī), desire of crossing over, wish to pass, wish to be freed from mundane existence, desire of final emancipation.

Titīrshu, us, us, u, desirous of crossing; wishing to attain; desirous of emancipation from existence.

तित्तिड tittiḍa and tittiḍika, incorrect forms for tintiḍa and tintiḍika.

तित्तिर tittira, as, m.=tittiri, col. 3; (ās), m. pl., N. of a race.

तित्तिरि tittiri, is, m. (said to be fr. rt. tṛī, but perhaps an onomatopoetic word fr. the cry titti), the francoline partridge; N. of a Muni, pupil of Yāska, and said to be the first teacher of the Taittirīya or Black Yajur-veda; (according to a legend the pupils of Vaiśampāyana became partridges in order to pick up the Veda which was vomited forth in a tangible shape by Yājñavalkya; cf. taittirīya); N. of a Nāga; [cf. Gr. τέτριξ, τέτραξ, τετράων, τετράζω; Old Island. thīd-r, 'a kind of hen;' Lith. tetĕrva, 'black grouse;' Boh. tetrev.]

Tittirika, as, m. the francoline partridge.

Tittirīka, as, ā, am, variegated like a partridge (tittiri) or made of Croton Tiglium (tittirī-phala).

Tittirī-phala (tittirī=tittiri ?), Croton Tiglium.

तिथ titha, as, m. (said to be fr. rt. tij), fire; love; time; autumn.

तिथि tithi, is, ī, m.f. (said to be fr. rt. at), a lunar day, the thirtieth part of a whole lunation, (the auspicious Tithis are Nandā, Bhadrā, Vi-jayā, Pūrṇā); the number 15; [cf. janma-tithi.]—Tithi-kshaya, as, m. the day of new moon; the day or space in which a Tithi begins or ends without one sunrising; the difference between the solar and lunar days in a Yuga.—Tithi-tattva, am, n., N. of the seventh section of the Smṛiti-tattva, treating of lunar holidays, by Raghu-nandana.—Tithitattva-ṭīkā, f., N. of the commentary on the preceding work by Kāśī-rāma.—Tithi-dāna, am, n., N. of a chapter of the second part of the Bhavishya-Purāṇa, treating of the observance of various ceremonies.—Tithi-dvaita, am, n., N. of a chapter of the Purāṇa-sarva-sva by Halāyudha.—Tithi-niyama, as, m., N. of a chapter of the Tantra-sāra, or compendium of Tantra doctrine, by Kṛishṇānanda.—Tithi-nirṇaya and tithinirṇaya-saṅkshepa, as, m., N. of two astronomical works.—Tithi-pati, is, m.=tithīśa.—Tithi-pattrī, f. an almanack.—Tithi-pālana, am, n. observance of the rites appointed for the several lunar days.—Tithi-prakaraṇa, am, n., N. of a chapter of the Cintā-maṇiḥ Sāraṇikā or Tithi-sāraṇikā, treating of astronomical periods and constellations, by Daśa-bala; N. of a chapter of the Jyotisha-ratna-mālā, an astronomical work by Śrī-pati.—Tithi-praṇī, īs, m. 'the leader of the lunar days,' the moon; [cf. dina-praṇī.]—Tithi-vāra-yoga, ās, m. pl., N. of a chapter of the Purāṇa-sarva-sva.—Tithi-viveka, as, m., N. of a chapter of the Saṃskāra-tattva by Raghu-nandana, treating of the Indian sacraments.—Tithi-vṛiddhi, is, f. that day or space in which a Tithi commences before or with one sunrise and ends after or at the next, thus completed under two suns.—Tithīśa (°thi-īśa), as, m. the regent of a lunar day.—Tithy-anta-nirṇaya, as, m., N. of a chapter of the Smṛity-artha-sāra by Śrī-dhara-svāmin, treating of the Indian ceremonies.—Tithy-ardha, as, am, m. n. half a Tithi,=karaṇa.

तिनाशक tināśaka, as, m. a tree,=tiniśa.

तिनिका tinikā, f. Holcus Sorghum.

तिनिश tiniśa, as, m. the tree Dalbergia Ougeinensis; [cf. tiṇisa and timiśa.]

तिन्तिड tintiḍa, as, m. the tamarind tree, Tamarindus Indica; acid seasoning, sour sauce, especially a sauce made of the fruit of the tamarind tree; an inauspicious period, the evil aspect of planets (?); (ī), f. the Indian tamarind tree; a sour sauce, especially one made of the fruit of the tamarind tree; Emblic Myrobalan.—Tintiḍī-dyūta, am, n. a kind of game, a sort of odd or even played with tamarind seeds.

Tintiḍikā, f. the tamarind tree.

Tintiḍika, as, ā, am, m. f. n. the tamarind tree; (am), n. the fruit of the tamarind; a sour sauce, especially one made of the fruit of the tamarind tree.