greasy; to liquefy, melt; to feel affection for any one, love [cf. mitra, rt. snih]; to rejoice (Ved.?): Caus. medayati, -yitum, to fatten, make fat (Ved.); [cf. Gr. μειδάω: Old Germ. minna, minni, 'love:' Lith. myliu, 'I love;' mielas, 'dear:' Russ. milyi, 'kind, affable.']

Minna, as, ā, am, become fat, fat; unctuous; affectionately disposed towards any one.

मिद्ध middha, am, n. sloth, indolence; sleepiness, torpor; dulness, heaviness of spirits or intellect.

मिध् midh, cl. 1. P. A. medhati, -te, medhitum, = rt. mith.

मिन्दा mindā, f., Ved. a bodily defect, fault, blemish; [cf. Lat. menda.]

मिन्मिन minmina = miṇmiṇa, p. 777, col. 1.

मिन्व् minv (connected with rts. ninv, sinv), cl. 1. P. minvati, &c., to sprinkle, moisten, water (= rt. pinv); to worship, serve, gratify by service.

मिमङ्क्षा mimankshā, f. (fr. Desid. of rt. majj), the wish to plunge into water, desire of bathing or diving.

Mimankshu, us, us, u, being about to plunge into water, desirous of bathing or diving.

मिमत mimata, as, m. a proper N.; [cf. maimata.]

मिमन्थिषा mimanthishā, f. (fr. Desid. of rt. math or manth), the desire of stirring up or shaking, desire of destroying, &c.

Mimanthishu, us, us, u, wishing to stir up, wishing or being about to shake or destroy.

मिमर्दयिषु mimardayishu or mimardishu, us, us, u (fr. Desid. of rt. 1. mṛid), wishing to crush, being about to crush or grind to powder.

मिमिक्ष mimiksha, as, ā, am (fr. Desid. of rt. 1. mih), Ved. mixed, mingled; (according to Sāy. on Ṛig-veda VI. 34, 4, mimiksha may = vrishṭy-udakānāṃ sektṛi, the sprinkler of rain-waters.)

Mimikshu, us, us, u, Ved. mixed, mingled; being mixed, &c.; wishing to rain down, desirous of bestowing; (Sāy. = varshitum icchat.)

मियक्ष् miyaksh. See myaksh, p. 800, col. 1.

मियेध miyedha, as, m. food set before the gods, a sacrificial meal or oblation, (perhaps) = medha, a sacrificial animal or victim, (according to Sāy. derived fr. medha; cf. Zend myazda.)

Miyedhya, as, ā, am, partaking of or receiving the sacrificial food, worthy of the oblation; (Sāy. = medhasya yajñasya yogya or yajñārha.)

मिरफ mirapha, (with Buddhists) a particular high number.

मिराखान mirā-khāna, as, m., N. of a Paṭhān chief (khāna = خان).

मिरिका mirikā, f. a species of plant, (connected with irikā, q. v.)

मिर्मिर mirmira, as, ā, am (fr. a form mir = rt. 1. mish), Ved. (according to a commentator) blinking.

मिल् mil (thought by some to be originally a Nom. fr. a Prākṛit form milla = miśra), cl. 6. P. A. milati, -te, mimela, minilc, melitum, (generally P.) to unite, be united with, join, be associate; to meet together, come together; to meet, assemble, associate; to mix, combine, be present at; to be connected with; to meet or fall in with (with inst. or gen. or loc. of the person or with saha and inst.); to find; to meet, encounter, (dvandva-yuddhena dvau militau, two persons met in single combat); to clash, impinge, concur; to happen, come to pass: Caus. melayati, -yitum, to cause to meet, bring together, assemble, convene.

Milat, an, atī or antī, at, joining, accompanying; meeting; assembling; concurring, combining; happening. — Milad-vyādha, as, ā, am, uniting with hunters, accompanied by huntsmen.

Milana, am, n. the act of mixing with, coming in contact with, associating with; concurring, encountering, coalescing, meeting; contact.

Milita, as, ā, am, united, mixed, combined, connected; found, met, encountered.

Militvā, ind. having met together, having united.

Milin, ī, inī, i, mixing with, combined with, provided with, possessing.

मिला milā in dur-milā, q. v.

मिलिन्दक milindaka, as, m. a kind of snake.

मिलीमिलिन् milīmilin, ī, m. an epithet of Śiva (which is said to contain a Mantra addressed to Śiva, consisting of the following eighteen syllables, Om, rudra cīli cīli cili cili mili mili, om svāhā).

मिल्ला millā, f., N. of a woman.

मिश् miś (connected with rt. maś), cl. 1. P. meśati, meśitum, to make a noise, sound; to be angry.

मिशर miśara, N. of a place.

मिशि miśi, is, or miśī, f. Anethum Panmori and Anethum Sowa (= misī); common anise; Indian spikenard, Nardostachys Jatamansi.

मिशृष miśṛisha, N. of a place (also written miśrisha).

मिश्र् miśr or misr (probably a Nom. fr. miśra below), cl. 10. P. miśrayati, miśrāpayati, &c., to mix, mingle, blend, combine, unite, mix with (with inst.); to add; [cf. Gr. μίσγ-ω, μίγ-νυ-μι, ἐ-μίγ-ην, ἐ-μίχθη-ν, μίγ-α, μίγ-δα, μίγ-δην, μιγ-άδες, μίξις: Lat. misc-e-o, mix-tu-s, mistu-s, mix-tû-ra, mis-tû-ra, mix-ti-o, mis-ti-o, misc-ellu-s, miscell-āneu-s: Old Germ. miscjan, misk-iu, 'mix thou:' Angl. Sax. miscan: Slav. mes-i-ti: Lith. misz-ti; misz-ini-s, 'a mongrel;' maisz-y-ti, 'to mix.']

Miśra, as, ā, am (thought by some to be fr. a lost rt. miś, connected with miksh, desiderative of rt. 1. mih; by others referred to rt. miś above), mixed, mingled, blended, joined; mixed or blended with (with inst. or sometimes gen.), combined; associated, connected, (na miśraḥ syāt pāpakṛidbhiḥ, one should not associate with the wicked); mixing, adulterating (e. g. mixing or adulterating corn); tangled, intertwined; manifold, diverse; (at the end of a comp.) having a mixture or mixed collection of anything, for the most part consisting of, consisting chiefly of (e. g. badarī-miśraṃ kānanam, a forest consisting for the most part of Badarī trees; ārya-vidagdha-miśrās, for the most part worthy and learned persons); (as), m. a respectable person (cf. ārya-m°; in this sense frequently used at the end or beginning of a proper name, especially that of a scholar, by way of respect, cf. Kṛishṇa-m°, Bhāva-m°, Madhu-m°; and sometimes used alone as an abbreviation for a name ending in miśra, e. g. miśra = Maṇḍana-miśra); N. of the author of the Karma-pradīpa and of various other persons; epithet of a kind of elephant; (am), n. mixing, mixture; a species of radish (= cāṇakya-mūlaka). — Miśra-keśava, as, m., N. of an author (= Keśava-dāsa). — Miśra-kesī, f., N. of an Apsaras. — Miśra-caturbhuja, as, m. a proper N. — Miśra-ja, as, m. 'of mixed birth or breed,' a mule. — Miśra-jāti, is, is, i, being of mixed birth or breed, of mixed parentage, any one whose parents belong to different castes. — Miśra-tā, f. mixedness, the being mixed, mixing, mingling. — Miśra-dina-kara, as, m., N. of a commentator on the Śiśupāla-badha. — Miśra-dhānya, as, ā, am, made by mixing various kinds of grain; (am), n. mixed grain. — Miśra-pushpā, f. Trigonella Fœnum Græcum (= methikā). — Miśra-bhāva, as, m., N. of the author of the Bhāva-prakāśa, a medical work, (also Bhāva, Bhāva-miśra.) — Miśra-laṭakana, as, m., N. of the father of Miśra-bhāva. — Miśra-varṇa, as, ā, am, being of a mixed colour; (am), n. a kind of black aloe wood (= kṛishṇāguru). — Miśravarṇa-phalā, f. Solanum Melongena. — Miśra-vyavahāra, as, m. (in arithmetic) investigation of mixture, ascertainment of composition (as principal and interest joined, &c.). — Miśra-śabda, as, m. a mule (= miśra-ja). — Miśrī-karaṇa, am, n. the act of mixing, an ingredient, seasoning. — Miśrī-kri, cl. 8. -karoti, &c., to make mixed, mix, mingle. — Miśrī-bhāva, as, m. becoming mixed, mixing, mingling. — Miśrī-bhū, cl. 1. P. -bhavati, -bhavitum, to become mixed, mix, intertwine.

Miśraka, as, ā. am, mixing, adulterating, mingled, miscellaneous; mixed, adulterated; (as), m. a mixer or compounder; an adulterator of articles of commerce, mixer of bad wares with good ones; (ani), n. salt produced from salt soil; N. of a Tīrtha; of a grove or garden of paradise; a particular kind of song or singing. — Miśrakā-vana, am, n., N. of Indra's pleasure-grove.

Miśraṇa, am, n. the act of mixing, uniting; (in arithmetic) addition.

Miśraṇīya, as, ā, am, to be mixed or mingled.

Miśrita, as, ā, am, mixed, mingled, blended, united, joined; added; respected, respectable.

Miśrin, ī, m., N. of a Nāga.

Miśreyā, f. (connected with miśi, q. v.), Anethum Panmori or a species of anise.

Miśla = miśra in ā-m°, ni-m°, sam-m°.

मिष 1. mish [cf. rt. mīl], cl. 6. P. mishati, mimesha, meshishyati, ameshīt, meshitum (the simple rt. appears to be used only in the present participle), to open the eyes, have the eyes open; to look at, look at or look on unwillingly, look on angrily or with the eyes contracted, wink at (generally used in the present participle, the construction being that of a genitive absolute, e. g. mishato bandhu-vargasya, the whole number of relatives looking helplessly on, i. e. before their very eyes or in spite of them; mishatāṃ vaḥ, in spite of you); to rival, contend with, resist, emulate; [cf. Gr. μῖσος, perhaps also μύω: Lat. mico; perhaps nico, nic-to, fr. nimic-o, nimic-to = nimishāmi: Russ. miyaju, mischu, 'I wink:' Lith. mirkloju, 'I wink;' mêgmi, 'I sleep.']

Misha, as, m. rivalry, emulation, envy; (am), n. deceit, fraud, trick, illusion, false appearance (e. g. sūda-misham śritaḥ, having assumed the form of a cook; darśana-mishāt, under the pretext of seeing); [cf. mṛishā.]

मिष 2. mish (connected with rt. 3. mṛish), cl. 1. P. meshati, mimesha, meshitum, to sprinkle, moisten, wet.

Mishṭa, as, ā, am, sprinkled, moistened; nice, savoury, dainty, delicate; sweet, sugary, (in this sense thought by some to be for 1. mṛishṭa fr. rt. 1. mṛij, to cleanse); mishṭam payas, water; (am), n. a sweetmeat; a dainty or savoury dish. — Mishṭa-kartṛi, tā, trī, tṛi, a maker of dainties or delicacies, a skilful cook. — Mishṭa-pāćaka, as, ikā, am, cooking savoury food or delicacies. — Mishṭa-bhuj, k, k, k, an eater of dainties, eating delicacies. — Mishṭa-vākya, as, ā, am, speaking pleasantly or agreeably. — Mishṭānna (°ṭa-an°), am, n. sweet or savoury food, sweetmeats, sauce, gravy, seasoning, a mixture of sugar and acids &c. eaten with rice or bread. — Mishṭāśā (°ṭa-āśā), f. desire for delicacies.

मिषमिषाय mishamishāya, Nom. A. mishamishāyate, &c. (an onomatopoetic word), to crackle, crepitate, make a crackling sound.

मिषि mishi, is, f. spikenard; fennel, &c., = misi.

Mishikā, f. Nardostachys Jatamansi.